

An eclectic roots band based in the Raleigh/Durham Triangle, No Worries makes music steeped in all the Americana styles ... blues / classic rock / country / bluegrass ... originals, old favorites, and covers of great songs you've maybe never heard yet. No Worries is also the feeling you'll get from their music. Fun, smooth, but seasoned — with a pinch of red pepper.

Visit your favorite streaming platforms or our social media sites for songs and videos.

Then contact us to discuss how we can entertain customers and guests at your festival, restaurant, winery, brewery, or private party.

Our JBL powered speakers can fill any indoor space smaller than an arena. Our stage footprint is about 10 x 15 ft. If using the house system, we need 4 vocal mics and 8 inputs total.

Contact Us

NoWorriesNC@gmail.com

919-439-7759

YouTube

Facebook

Bandcamp

Albums To Date

streaming on all major platforms

No Worries Is:

Richard Bowdon

After soaking up the many cross-currents of 60's and 70's pop music, Richard focused in on Americana before that was a word. He learned what a good song is from poetic singer/songwriters like John Prine and Townes Van Zandt, then started writing his own ... and never stopped.

Richard's songs carry forward the best Americana traditions, crossing freely over country, rock, blues, and folk, with a focus on well-crafted lyrics ... poignant, ironic, or humorous. His roles in No Worries include vocals, guitar, harmonica, and of course, songwriting. Richard also performs as a solo artist (richardbowdon.com).

Jim Amsden

Growing up on a farm in Maine, Jim built amps from surplus military vacuum tubes and needed something to play through them, so he picked up the electric guitar. By 16 he was rocking & rolling local clubs ... even his own high school prom. After moving south to North Carolina, he started absorbing the new acoustic music of bands like Nickel Creek and Strength in Numbers. Jim plays just about anything, but in No Worries he straps on a mandolin, electric guitar, or acoustic guitar ... and sings too.

Jim also plays electric guitar in a rock & roll cover band: Moonlight Rescue.

Rob Surra

Rob learned guitar as a kid in Buffalo then picked up the bass in high school. In his travels through Cincinnati, Chicago and finally North Carolina, he has played everything from 70's punk to lounge jazz. As bass player and vocalist for No Worries, he enjoys the rich, diverse range of roots music we play.

Rob's other band is the instrumental jazz trio In2Jazz.

People are Saying

“Sip...a wine store’ in Cary often hosts bands to play on Friday evenings or special Saturday events. No Worries is always welcome back. Our customers say they enjoy the selection of tunes and the ambiance the band lends to the occasion.” — April Schlanger, owner

“I just wanted to thank you again for your fabulous performance. I was happy to hear that you had a great experience, and were pleased with the venue. It was our pleasure to have you.” — Carmen Watson, Raleigh-Durham Airport Authority

“No Worries has gotten great reviews from customers at the Western Wake Farmers' Market. It's ideal when you can count on musicians to be on schedule and deliver a great sound every time. That's exactly what these seasoned entertainers do for us. Their repertoire of acoustic songs and smooth vocal stylings lends a great flavor to the marketplace. We look forward to having them back!” — Amy Lee, Western Wake Farmers’ Market

“No Worries provides a warm and lively atmosphere that adds to our customers' dining experience. We look forward to having them back and are excited to add them to our music venue.” — Roe DeMattia, owner, Georgina’s

“Thanks so much for the wonderful music and entertainment No Worries provided at our annual Spring Garden Party. You gave us exactly the atmosphere we were looking for, and we look forward to having you back again for our next big function.”
— Audrey Pettit, Garden Supply Company

“I enjoy your music, the customers say you guys are fun and play a great variety of music.... I look forward to having you again!!” — Cheri McLaughlin, owner, Winestyles

